CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY NEWS:

Another Year, Another $1 Million in Scholarships from New Jersey's Union Construction Industry

EDISON, NJ – In a time when additional student loans are avoided at all costs, New Jersey's union construction industry is providing financial support for some students. This year, 199 hard-working students were awarded $1,020,200 to put toward their education. This year's scholarships are just one example of the many contributions New Jersey's union construction industry has put toward building New Jersey's workforce.

The scholarships come from trade associations whose members are the construction companies that hire union craftworkers – and from the unions themselves. "It is always great to see the union construction industry celebrating student's achievements," stated Michael Criscola, Chairman of the Construction Industry Advancement Program Board of Trustees. "We applaud the students and their parents for their successes, and we wish them the best of luck as they step forward to lead their generation in the construction industry and beyond."

Pictured above are half the students selected to participate in the Construction Industry Advancement Program's Career Fair on January 10, 2018. These students were given the opportunity to interview with construction industry representatives in search of summer interns. 44 of the students were successful in securing internships and received CIAP Scholarships, totaling $132,000.

A list of the 2018 scholarships, awarded to students attending colleges all over the country, are as follows:

Associated Construction Contractors of New Jersey (ACCNJ): 5 scholarships totaling $62,500 and 1 one-time scholarship totaling $10,000
